

CD12 commissioning

Another milestone has been reached. On February 18th 2011 we obtained “first light” at the beamline exit window after elaborate optics adjustments. For the next weeks extensive calibration and test measurements are planned to review the required beamline specifications of CD12.